Historical Note

At the time that it gained land grant status in 1868, Oregon State University (then Corvallis College) was a typical liberal arts college of the day. As the college's curriculum expanded into the sciences and technology in the early 20th century, the liberal arts were de-emphasized; they were grouped in to the Division of Service Departments. In 1919, the division was renamed the School of Basic Arts and Sciences. With the reorganization of Oregon's public higher education in 1932, the liberal arts at OSU were de-emphasized further. The ensuing Lower Division was limited to freshman and sophomore level courses.

After World War II, President A. L. Strand pushed to expand the liberal arts at the college. In 1959, divisional majors in humanities and social sciences were offered for the first time, and in 1961 the School of Humanities and Social Sciences was established. Various degree programs were developed in the 1960s. In 1973, the school became the College of Liberal Arts.

Gordon Gilkey served as the first Dean of the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, a position he held until his retirement in 1978; David J. King was Dean of the College from 1978 until 1982; Bill Wilkins served as Dean from 1982 until his retirement in 1994.

Arrangement

The records are arranged in 9 subgroups: 1. Dean's Office, 1952-1985; 2. American Studies Program, 1968-1979; 3. Economics Department, 1968-1984; 4. English Department, 1953-1965; 5. Sociology Department, 1976-2008; 6. History Department, 1983-2006; 7. Anthropology Department, 1969-2001; 8. Art Department, 1983-2006; and 9. Microfilmed Records, 1857-1968.

Subgroup 1 (Dean's Office) consists of 5 series: I. Correspondence, 1953-1971; II. Committee Records, 1952-1974; III. Board of Visitors, 1974; IV. Special Events, 1984-1994; and V. Student Credit Hour Reports, 1975-1988.

Subgroup 2 (American Studies Program) consists of one series: I. General Office Files, 1968-1979. Subgroup 3 (Economics Department) consists of one series: I. Research Reports, Papers, and Journal Articles, 1968-1984.

Subgroup 6 (History Department) consists of two series: I. Special Events, 1983-2006 and II. History 310 Student Papers, 2004.

Subgroup 9 (Microfilmed Records) consists of three series: I. Correspondence, 1957-1968; II. General File, 1958-1967; and III. Oregon State Penitentiary University, 1965-1967.

Subgroups 4-5 and 7-8 are not organized into series.

Content Description

The College of Liberal Arts Records consist of records of the Dean's Office as well the records of several individual departments and academic programs in the College. The records primarily document the liberal arts curriculum at Oregon State University; publications by faculty; and conferences, lectures, and special events sponsored by the College.

Records of the American Studies Program and the Departments of Art, Anthropology, Economics, English, History, and Sociology are included in this collection.

Of special note in the Dean's Office records are reports from a 1974 Board of Visitors to the College; materials pertaining to the retirement celebration for Dean Bill Wilkins in 1994; and student credit hour reports for the late 1970s through 1980s.

The Economics Department records consist of publications by faculty and include multiple publications by Thomas D. Bible; Lafayette G. Harter, Jr.; B. Starr McMullen; R. Charles Vars, Jr.; and Murray Wolfson. Several of the publication pertain to the economics of forestry and wood products.

The English Department records include a text on report writing by J.F. Ligon and the proceedings of the Summer Conference on Science Writing.

In addition to department annual reports, the Sociology Department materials include a reading packet for a course on Gender and Sexuality in Popular Culture taught by Dwaine Plaza and Kathleen Stanley.

The History Department records include a substantive file documenting the visit of Paul C. Warnke to OSU in 1983 to deliver the Ava Helen Pauling Lectureship for World Peace and papers written by students in History 310 pertaining to a variety of OSU-related topics using primary sources in the OSU Archives.

Of note in the Anthropology Department records are an historic register nomination for Waldo Hall prepared in 1996 and a report of an archeological excavation conducted in downtown Corvallis in 2001. The Art Department records include data summaries provided by the Higher Education Arts Data Services (HEADS) Project that provides detailed information on the arts in higher education. The data include enrollment, degrees offered, operational budgets, and faculty salaries.

The microfilmed records include correspondence and related materials documenting the Oregon State Penitentiary University which offered college-level courses to inmates at the Oregon State Penitentiary taught by OSU faculty.

Preferred Citation

College of Liberal Arts Records (RG 143), Oregon State University Archives, Corvallis, Oregon.

Acquisition Information

Materials were transferred in numerous accessions from the 1960s through 2008.

Box2 Subgroup 4. English Department, 1953-1965 (2 folders)

The English Department records consist of a 1953 textbook, An Introduction to Report Writing, written by J.F. Ligon and published by the OSC Cooperative Association and the published proceedings of the Summer Conference on Science Writing, held at OSU in 1965. This conference was organized and sponsored by the English Department and the Summer Session, was offered to OSU staff in both the sciences and humanities, and focused on writing well for professional publication as well as communicating clearly in non-technical language with the public.

Box3 Subgroup 5. Sociology Department, 1976-2008 (4 folders)

The Sociology Department records consist of annual reports for 1977-1978 and 1988-1989 through 1992-1993, correspondence of the department chairman (1976-1986), and records regarding a cooperative agreement between OSU and Srinakharinwirot University in Thailand (1988-1989). The subgroup also includes a course reading packet for SOC 499/599, Gender and Sexuality in Popular Culture taught by Dwaine Plaza and Kathleen Stanley in June 2008. This includes a research study on college football by Plaza and Stanley using football team photographs.

Subgroup 6. History Department, 1983-2006

The History Department records consist of announcements and materials documenting special events sponsored by the department and student papers written using primary sources in the OSU Archives.

Series I. Special Events, 1983-2006 [The Special Events records materials pertaining to the Ava Helen Pauling Lectureship for World Peace, the Horning Lecture and Conference Series, the Holocaust Memorial Week, and other lectures.]

3 Series II. History 310 Student Papers, 2004 [Student papers written for the Spring 2004 Historian's Craft course (HST 310) that used primary sources in the OSU Archives. The papers address a variety of topics including the origins of the Daily Barometer campus newspaper, Title IX implementation and compliance at OSU, OSU during World War II, the 1937 water shortage in Corvallis, Native Americans at OSU, the changing face of home economics education at OSU; the development of the Oregon State curriculum in general the the history curriculum specifically; student life in the 1930s-1950s; Snell and Withycombe Halls; and the Nancy Wyckoff murder in 1972.]

Box3 Subgroup 7. Anthropology Department, 1969-2001 (3 folders)

The Anthropology Department records consist of a proposal for development of an Anthropology Department at Oregon State University (circa 1969); a nomination of Waldo Hall to the National Register of Historic Places prepared in 1996; and a report of a 2001 archeological excavation at the site of the former Copeland Lumber building in downtown Corvallis. The Waldo Hall nomination was completed by two Anthropology Department graduate students in 1996 as part of a class project and was never submitted for review. It includes descriptions of history and construction of the building; photocopies of historic photographs from the OSU Archives; and 24 color and b/w photographs. The report of the excavation of the Copeland Lumber site (411 SW Second Street) was prepared for the Benton County Historical Society by Anthropology Department graduate student and project leader Kirsten Pourroy Hebert.

Box3 Subgroup 8. Art Department, 1983-2006 (4 folders)

The Art Department Records consist of data summaries of the Higher Education Arts Data Services Project for 1986-1987 through 1991-1992; information on course equivalencies for transfer (articulation agreements) between OSU and Art Departments at various Oregon community colleges for 1983-1990; and a brochure publicizing a series of three programs in March 2006 that highlighted performance art.

Subgroup 9. Microfilmed Records, 1957-1968

The microfilmed records consist of correspondence and subject files pertaining primarily to curriculum, courses, and policies as well as materials documenting the Oregon State Penitentiary University program.

Series I. Correspondence, 1957-1968 [The bulk of the correspondence pertains to courses to be offered during summer session. In addition, the series includes memoranda documenting the development of policies by the new School of Humanities and Social Sciences in the early 1960s and correspondence received from prospective students interested in pursuing degrees in the liberal arts at Oregon State University.]
