

The Malheur Story

Recent militant protests at Malheur National Wildlife Refuge recently drew national attention, but the rich history of this area was overlooked. Explore Harney County's history of native peoples, cattle empires, and the restoration of one of the nation's most significant marshland habitats for waterfowl and birds by naturalist William Finley and others.

THURSDAY, NOV. 3

4 p.m. at the Special Collections and Archives Research Center
5th floor of the Valley Library
